

Special Feature: Climate Change and Cities

Climate Change and Cities

While not traditionally connected, urban planning is increasingly influencing climate change mitigation. Recent initiatives, like the C40 Cities Climate Leadership Group and Local Governments for Sustainability are proving effective in the global efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and become carbon-neutral.

Jennifer Eveland reports.

A Better City Through Mobility

From its dark past of drugs and violence, Medellín today is Colombia's best example of remarkable recovery. The city's transformation in recent years has attracted global attention. The Urban Land Institute, City Group and Wall Street Journal declared Medellín "Innovative City of the Year" in 2013, and it received a Lee Kuan Yew World City Prize Special Mention in 2014.
