

The DPU Health in Urban Development Scholarship

The Development Planning Unit (DPU) are pleased to announce the launch of the Health in Urban Development (HUD) MSc Scholarship.

The purpose of the DPU Health in Urban Development Scholarship is to support candidates of the highest calibre for postgraduate study at the Health in Urban Development MSc programme, in the expectation that as graduates, these scholars will make important contributions to urban health by drawing on the strengths of the international perspective and leading position of the DPU in the development field.

There are two scholarships available, each worth £10,000 to be used towards payment of the tuition fee.

- 1 award to be open specifically to a candidate from the Global South
- 1 award to be open to all

Eligibility requirements

One of these scholarships is available to overseas tuition fee paying students from the Global South, and one is open to any applicant.

Applicants must be in receipt of an unconditional offer to the HUD MSc programme at the time of application.

Selection criteria

The scholarship is awarded on the basis of academic merit.

Application process

Applicants must provide proof that they can fund the remainder of the tuition fee and living expenses for the duration of their studies at UCL

The HUD award can be held in conjunction with other partial scholarships (i.e. Bartlett Masters/OKS)

Closing date for application: May 29 2020

The scholarship form should be submitted to dpu@ucl.ac.uk.
