

Special feature: Malmö

What sets Malmö apart?

From an industrial town in decline, Malmö, Sweden's third largest city, has transformed itself into one of the greenest, most sustainable cities in the world. Mayor Ilmar Reepalu, who has been instrumental behind Malmö's turnaround, talks about significant initiatives that have been making this city stand out.

Planning for sustainability: The Malmö way

At the Prize Forum during the World Cities Summit 2012 in July, Mayor of Malmö Ilmar Reepalu spoke passionately about how Malmö plans for and achieves sustainability in partnership with the community, business groups and Copenhagen, its neighbouring city in Denmark.

About

The Lee Kuan Yew World City Prize is a biennial international award that honours outstanding achievements and contributions to the creation of liveable, vibrant and sustainable urban communities around the world.

The Prize seeks to recognise cities and their key leaders and organisations for displaying foresight, good governance and innovation in tackling the many urban challenges faced, to bring about social, economic and environmental benefits in a holistic way to their communities.
